PPE – Hand Safety

Chevron is continually striving towards our goal of Zero Incidents for the Gulf of Thailand, it's notable that 73 % of our injuries are related to hand safety. In many cases this was inadequate risk identification, using improper PPE, or not utilizing PPE at all. There's no excuse for a hand injury that could have been prevented by wearing the proper gloves. PPE is always our last line of defense but should never be overlooked; this includes hard hats, steel toed shoes, safety glasses, ear plugs, etc.

Please review and widely communicate Chevron's PPE requirements which have been posted on our external website in a PowerPoint format to assist our contractors in communicating and selecting PPE while working on a Chevron location. You can access the PPE requirements at:

<http://www.chevronthailand.com/contractorsafety/document/TSP24-PPE.pdf>.

Please use this presentation to remind everyone that identifying the risks and wearing PPE appropriate to the task is not an option... THIS IS A REQUIREMENT.
